Brian Doyle describes himself as a “hirsute, shambling, shuffling, mumbling, grumbling, muttering, muddled, maundering, meandering, male being” who edits Portland Magazine at the University of Portland in Oregon— the best university magazine in America, according to Newsweek, and “the best spiritual magazine in the country,” according to author Annie Dillard.

Doyle has authored several award-winning books and essays, including the novel “Mink River,” which won the 2010 American Library Association's Editor's Choice Prize for Fiction. His essays have appeared in The Atlantic Monthly, Harper's, Orion and The American Scholar. Other honors include a Catholic Book Award, two Pushcart Prizes, and the 2008 Award in Literature from the American Academy of Arts and Letters, an award whose recipients include Saul Bellow, Kurt Vonnegut and Flannery O'Connor.
